STEP 1

At the Museum

A customer gets inside the museum to look at the wonderful paintings.

In the dialogue below, A is the customer and you play B as the sales clerk.

A: Is this an art museum?

B:

A: Wow! Look at all the paintings! They're so beautiful. Who made this one?

B:

A: Really? How much does one painting usually cost?

B:

A: I see. Can I touch them?

B:

A: Oh. Why not?

B:

A: I see. Can we go and see the other paintings?

B:

A: I'd like to buy this one. Can I?

B:

A: Thank you so much. Who do I need to talk to?

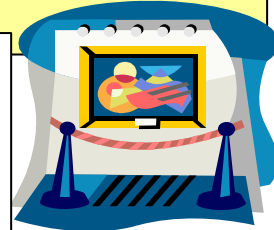

B:

A: Can you please take me to him?

B:

A: Thank you so much for your time showing me around the museum. You take care.

B:

STEP 2

At the Museum

A customer gets inside the museum to look at the wonderful paintings.

In the dialogue below, A is the customer and you play B as the sales clerk.

A: Is this an art museum?

B: Certainly. We have one of the Japanese most famous paintings here. Would you like to take a look at those?

A: Wow! Look at all the paintings! They're so beautiful. Who made this one?

B: One of the great painters named Takeo Saito.

A: Really? How much does one painting usually cost?

B: $350 for this one.

A: I see. Can I touch them?

B: I'm afraid you cannot actually touch them. I'm sorry.

A: Oh. Why not?

B: Just one touch of someone else would change the view of the painting. It's just that delicate.

A: I see. Can we go and see the other paintings?

B: Sure. Feel free to look around.

A: I'd like to buy this one. Can I?

B: That's one of our this-month recommendations. You have such great eyes.

A: Thank you so much. Who do I need to talk to?

B: There is the purchase counter on the other floor.

A: Can you please take me to him?

B: My pleasure. Please follow me.

A: Thank you so much for your time showing me around the museum. You take care.

B: It was a great pleasure. Thank you so much for coming and purchasing the great art here. You have a wonderful day.
